

Do it because
you love them.

You didn't use a booster seat when you were a child.

But you didn't think asbestos was dangerous, either.

Times have changed. Some things didn't seem like a big deal back then.

Nowadays we know better.

If your child is under 4'9", they should be using a booster seat. It helps the safety belt fit correctly and—if you're in a crash—it reduces the risk of serious injury by 59%.

So use a booster seat. It's the only way to protect your child's safety on the road.

Raise your child right. If they're under 4'9", put them in a booster seat.

www.boosterseat.gov

